a selection of key essays on art from the nineteenth century to the present day by one of the most influential voices in art history this illustrated collection of essays brings together some of art historian linda nochlin's most important writings on modernism and modernity from across her six decade career before the publication of her seminal essay on feminism in art why have there been no great women artists she had already firmly established herself as a major practitioner of a politically sophisticated and class conscious social art history nochlin was part of an important cohort of scholars writing on modernity determined to rethink the narratives of the subject under the pressure of contemporary events such as student uprisings the women's liberation movement and the vietnam war with the help of politically engaged literary criticism that was emerging at the same time nochlin embraced charles baudelaire's conviction that modernity is meant to be of one's time and that the role of an art historian was to understand the art of the past not only in its own historical context but according to the urgencies of the contemporary world from academic debates about the nude in the eighteenth century to the work of robert gober in the twenty first whatever she turned her analytic eye to was conceived as the art of the now including seven previously unpublished pieces this collection highlights the breadth and diversity of nochlin's output across the decades including discussions on colonialism fashion and sex medieval art modern politics is an innovative volume of twelve essays by international scholars prefaced by a comprehensive introduction it examines the political uses and misuses of medieval images objects and the built environment from the 16th to the 20th century in case studies ranging from russia to the us and from catacombs mosques cathedrals and feudal castles to museums and textbooks it demonstrates how the artistic and built legacy has been appropriated in post medieval times to legitimize varied political agendas whether royalist imperial fascist or colonial entities as diverse as the roman papacy the catholic church local arts organizations private owners of medieval fortresses or organizers of exhibitions and publishers are examined for the multiple ways they co-opt medieval works of art medieval art modern politics enlarges the history of revivalism and of medievalism by giving it a uniquely political twist demonstrating the unavoidable but often ignored intersection of art history knowledge and power from t j clark comes this provocative study of the origins of modern art in the painting of parisian life by edouard manet and his followers the paris of the 1860s and 1870s was a brand new city recently adorned with boulevards cafes parks great exhibitions and suburban pleasure grounds the birthplace of the habits of commerce and leisure that we ourselves know as modern life a new kind of culture quickly developed in this remade metropolis sights and spectacles avidly appropriated by a new kind of consumer clerks and shopgirls neither working class nor bourgeois inventing their own social position in a system profoundly altered by their very existence emancipated and rootless these men and women flocked to the bars and nightclubs of paris went boating on the seine at argenteuil strolled the island of la grande jatte enacting a charade of community that was to be captured and scrutinized by manet degas and seurat it is clark's cogently argued and profusely illustrated thesis that modern art emerged from these painters attempts to represent this new city and its inhabitants concentrating on three of manet's greatest works and seurat's masterpiece clark traces the appearance and development of the artists favorite themes and subjects and the technical innovations that they employed to depict a way of life which under its liberated pleasure seeking surface was often awkward and anxious through their paintings manet and the impressionists ask us and force us to ask ourselves is the freedom offered by modernity a myth is modern life heroic or monotonous glittering or tawdry spectacular or dull the painting of modern life illuminates for us the ways both forceful and subtle in which manet and his followers raised these questions and doubts which are as valid for our time as for the age they portrayed today the museum of modern art is widely recognized for establishing the canon of modern art yet in its early years the museum considered modern art part of a still unfolding experiment in contemporary visual production by bracketing moma s early history from its later reputation this book explores the ways the museum acted as a laboratory to set an ambitious agenda for the exhibition of a multidisciplinary idea of modern art between its founding in 1929 and its 20th anniversary in 1949 moma created the first museum departments of architecture and design film and photography in the country marshaled modern art as a political tool and brought consumer culture into a versatile yet institutional context encompassing 14 essays that investigate the diversity of modern art this volume demonstrates how moma s programming shaped a version of modern art that was not elitist but fundamentally intertwined with all levels of cultural production this is an exciting exploration of the role art plays in our lives matick takes the question what is art as a basis for a discussion of the nature of art he asks what meaning art can have and to whom in the present order
